Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, January 5, 2017 – 10:00 a.m.

Your body is bound to this world for a little longer, while your soul has gone ahead. It is already soaring, immortal and free, towards spaces where you will rejoin those you love. It is no longer necessary to go elsewhere on this Earth. The objective henceforth is to come and join us, here where you can be much closer to the beings you love, incarnate or not.

You will reveal yourself sufficiently for them to understand. This is how it is, we can say once again. You will witness the spread of this Mission, with happiness, while acting in your own way when necessary.

Such ties of the heart cannot weaken; they express themselves differently and, in your case, this will be for the good in many circumstances. Do not feel embarrassed; you will remain in the background in accordance with your wishes, working in a different way, with the powers of action that will be vested in you. You are our dear daughter, having served for a long time and in your own manner.

You love independence; only love guides you and carries you where appropriate here, in the service of this Mission. You will not be forgotten, you may rest assured. These writings will remain the only authentic and valid ones – the united Masters strongly confirm this. This is how it is; be at peace. You are carried by our very special love and blessings on this day of grace for your heart.
