Friday, July 21, 2000 - 10:00 a.m.

As regards what you are waiting for, you should wait forty-eight hours. Things are not so easy to organize. You are headed towards difficult times on this aspect. What have liberties become in France? This negative and powerful force, which operates for a long time in obscurity, will manifest itself more and more if the French do not react. We have alluded several times to this problem without it finding an echo in you. That seems derisory to you. That power, which did so much harm in the past, could reappear with all its might unfortunately for many who do not see the danger happening and who would remain sceptical about our comments. Let us hope that common sense will prevail and that this religion that did so much harm in the past will not resurface in all its might and hatred against that which does not resemble it.

"As you cannot change the world as quickly as you would wish, you should take refuge in sadhana; nobody can take it away from you."

Babuji