Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, April 7, 2017 – 10:00 a.m.

Be at peace, dear soul – you have given everything, up until now, to translate here in words the expression of our love for this Mission that is so dear to us. To see it transform over time, and position itself as it is doing, is reason for rejoicing. Each of the spiritual Masters has brought to it what was required, so that it could effectively position itself among our brothers and sisters who are truly engaged in serving it and making the most of its benefits. The future will give it a considerable aura; all of you will be satisfied with its action and the results it produces.

It takes quite some time for the actions of a spiritual path like this one to be affirmed – a path where a real work is done on the beings in need of a true advancement through such an approach.

The true need for an active spirituality will increasingly impose itself, it will become so very necessary. May our brothers and sisters grow in this call and give it its true place.

Blessings to all.
