Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, May 13, 2017 – 10:00 a.m.

Let's continue for a little while longer, as much as possible. Repetitions here are not superfluous; they touch their target and produce the desired effects. Does not everything on Earth repeat itself constantly – nothing is accomplished without this. The most beautiful edifice is constructed day after day to arrive at the end result, the goal to be attained. Over time, this spiritual path generates significant results. Perseverance is necessary; everything must be earned here below – nothing is given by chance. Everything has its raison d'être – both the good and the bad, as they are called here below. The divine laws have their own rules, which elude human comprehension. A human being is so small before them, how could they be understood in all their subtlety – they are of such complexity.

We insist on this point. Human beings often rebel, they do not understand; we have all been through such states. Interiorising oneself, reverting to wisdom while trying to adapt, enables progress. Ordeals are hard; sometimes they can cause one to revolt, and disturb the entire being. Going back into oneself, to the very depths of one's being, if possible in utmost surrender, opens up new perspectives and can transform a life. We see many brothers and sisters changing, adapting to circumstances. Surrender as advocated in our way is a strong point of the practice for the advancement of each one. Be that as it may, all are supported and helped – we see to that in our own manner, hence the need to let go.

Blessings to all.
