Be satisfied with your current progress, let time do its work.

As for the ashram, you are operating behind the scenes; you know it well. We use your mind to move things along. One day, you will be in the forefront, but some cleaning is yet required before that – you would take on too much negativity. In any case, people will be jealous.

We watch over you and we hope you will be able to live a little more normally one day. Make the best use of what you are experiencing currently to turn ever more to the essential.

Why do you need to go to this woman (a healer)? Are we not in contact enough? Endure with courage, as you always do.

We love you; be blessed, my child.
