Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, September 6, 1998 – 10:45 a.m.

At the ashram, things should take care of themselves, simply, with faith and love. It only takes a few good wills; they are not lacking. Many among you are making a fine journey. Why spoil all that in groundless conflicts? Focus on your personal work. Be lenient; who doesn't make mistakes?

Let this flame grow in you, it will elevate you towards the Absolute, the Divine.

It is simpler than you think. You complicate life by letting yourselves fall into the trap of a material existence that is difficult in many ways. Times will come when you will have to stick together, when you will regret these blessed years in which you did not really take advantage of all that was offered to you. Make more efforts than ever to elevate yourselves. The inner strength that will develop in you will help you face the hardships ahead. Love one another. The scriptures of all times tell you that. Consider this truth as essential.

Blessings to all.
