Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, January 17, 1999 – 10:30 a.m.

Whoever we are and whatever we do, we form one big family, with all the implied differences. That requires understanding, abnegation and courage. Take your role seriously, all of you, however small it may be. Thus you will help him, you will help us. Be confident and determined. May your heart rejoice, my daughter. You are progressing as best as possible. We are happy with you. You begin to foresee the why and how of things. That's good. May this flame that burns in you keep illuminating those who need it. Beings with a mission differ from one another. That is due to the fact that the human multitude is very diverse; each one has to be able to go towards whoever suits them.

The Medium: Are you happy, Babuji, with what is happening at the ashram this weekend?

Yes, we are happy, even if this does not affect the majority. The work being done is very good and beneficial to all. Be blessed, my daughters.

Even if this message seems to insist heavily, it is necessary. Your poor heads, cluttered with a thousand things, need that. Review the whole and amend if necessary.
