Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, April 19, 1999 – 8:00 a.m.

Mahasamadhi of Babuji

The Medium: Can you heal me, Babuji?

You have my heart, is that not enough for you?
Be patient and more attentive from now on; we give you information about your health, you don't pay attention to it.

It was a very beautiful day when I went to meet my Beloved Master. My soul was overflowing with joy, I had been awaiting this for so long.

I did everything my Master expected of me, with love.

Finding each other again caused an outburst of joy in the hereafter, the wait had been so long.

The sadness of my brothers and sisters on Earth was touching.

The Medium: You are so loved, Babuji!

This love, I return it a hundredfold to all of you.

A day will come when you will be able to verify its strength.

My son gives me complete satisfaction. I could not have had a better successor and you all, a better Master.

He is inexhaustible, his working power is staggering.

The Mission will continue after him. Another Master will succeed him, we are training him. He will have to work in a different register. The Mission changes with time; it grows and structures itself.

We need men of different natures. Our personalities are suited to the times in which we live.

Our successors will have a huge job to do.

In the future, the Mission will spread throughout the world; Sahaj Marg will benefit all of humanity.

I am happy, in the wake of my revered Master, to have contributed to the laying of the foundation stones of such an edifice.
