Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, April 23, 1999 – 8:00 a.m.

Live one day at a time. The future may not be as dark as you see it. You have always stood firm; we are here to support you.

Some means must be found to relieve you. Don't be so anxious. Your life is not over. You still have a long way to go; there will be some respite.

You still wish to serve us, therefore, don't lose heart.

The benefit of the big celebrations is that they motivate our members; the preparatory work that is being done energizes them.

This year in particular, minds are becoming refined. They are grasping well. Many can sense that 'something' is happening; this is progress.

We are happy to see them in this state of receptivity.

We are often torn between the wish to crack down or to bless.

The Westerners are a special case; we cannot expect them to react like Easterners.

On the whole, there is progress.
