We have already come a long way with these messages. Our contacts have intensified. You are doing your best, my daughter, to keep up from day to day.

We are very satisfied with this seminar. At this stage, we have a better overview of the results obtained.

The motivation of the abhyasis is more than satisfactory. They have become aware of the reliability of the system. They see that regular practice requires willpower and perseverance, and most of them adapt themselves to it.

There is progress in the individual work. That is very important; the threads of this immense network are becoming closer-knit and more solid.

We have more and more strong elements, future functionaries, in all four corners of the world.

Many of them will be needed - active, balanced men and women, who understand that they are advancing in a way which is open to all, non-sectarian and simple in terms of its practice. It is an effective means, suited to their time and to mentalities that want results with little effort. Results are proportional to efforts, of course, but we will not insist further on this. Awareness is developing in the Mission on this point.

Many are growing out of their childishness. The West is starting to move. Over the years, we will perhaps witness an inversion of values.

Together let us do everything so that such an awareness comes to fruition, and that the East and the West harmonize in this sense for the good of humanity.
