Don't always doubt your capabilities, write:

The celebrations have just ended and my son is already on to other projects. His travels will only intensify, he has become a Master globetrotter.

He has a facility for travel that the great beings of the past did not have. This, together with all the modern means of communication, is a great asset for the Mission.

He can meet the aspirants of spirituality in all the corners of the world.

There is such a great demand that it is difficult to satisfy, despite all the facilities we have mentioned. He should delegate much more often. That is not easy, his spiritual dimension is irreplaceable, but it will be necessary in the future.

The abhyasis will have to understand his reasons and think about him, who so often goes beyond his strength.

My son is a builder in every sense of the word, nothing stops him; we admire him.

Yet he too has to struggle with his human weaknesses – the doubt, the fear of not being able to solve certain material problems. Don't think that everything is easy for him.

He also has his health problems, which bother him enormously, and yet he faces up to them.

We are happy to see him carrying out so well what we conceive.
He is a real lion.
