Thursday, August 10, 2000 - 8:00 a.m.

The Medium: "My dear Francois, on this anniversary day of your departure, will you give me a message, or is this superfluous?"

You are right, that is not superfluous, but if we meditate together, our two hearts will be joined together in the divine song, that which emanates from the soul when it opens up to its Beloved Creator. In this strange and sublime world where it's all harmony, we will meet again one day, more united than ever, without any sour note. Our union on Earth was successful; we respected each other as human beings. Mutual understanding was perfect. It is essential in a couple's relationship; it's equally essential to value the loved one who can thus find the full blossoming of his/her personality. That must be a main preoccupation, a token of great love: to ensure that the other finds happiness while being completely fulfilled.

"Let's meditate together and meet together in the joy of the heart.

"Fully Yours,"

François