Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, June 4, 1999 – 8:00 a.m.

As announced, my son did not delay in getting back on the road after the celebrations.

Time is pressing, he has so much to do with regard to relationships, he is irreplaceable.

The Mission is extending into new countries; some people are ready to take action – beings who are psychologically healthy and determined.

The greatest freedom reigns in our way, that must be emphasized. This is, among other things, what gives it its strength.

There is no recruitment. Each individual can try to practise; they are helped, enlightened, and not subjected to any pressure.

They can choose to continue, or leave without any form of restriction, as is currently the case in certain paths, especially in the West.

It is necessary to be vigilant in this regard. False prophets, false gurus abound. They do harm to movements that are beneficial to humanity.

The exaggeration of the media in the treatment of these topics also does a lot of harm.

It is true, there are disturbed and domineering minds who, under the pretext of spirituality, do business by indoctrinating their followers in an unhealthy way.

We must not confuse everything, one must learn to separate 'the wheat from the chaff'.

The aspirant has a choice to make. One must be able to try the practice in all tranquillity, and to leave without any problem if not satisfied. This is very important.

Here, the greatest liberty is offered to all. We propose to the followers a means of elevating themselves, we give them the access code, they use it as they please, they experiment and mostly make good use of it.

If it is mere curiosity on their part, they will go and look elsewhere, that being their strictest right. No one will try to retain them. But this approach will perhaps have been positive for them; if the ground is favourable, the tiny seed sown in the heart will be able to make its way.
