Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, July 2, 1999 – 8:00 a.m.

Two beautiful souls are on their way towards you. They will have much to move to fulfill their double mission, spiritual and humanitarian.

They will succeed, we see them at work in their current life; they are not without strength.

This second collection is finished and its contents must enlighten you all and suffuse you for a certain time in order to expand your souls. Such things can be said only to a restricted number of you, those nourished by the previous messages.

Even what seems insignificant to you has its resonance within you.

If you keep them as a precious good, a blessing, over the years this spiritual food will imbue very profoundly each fibre of your being.

What you do not accept today, you will understand tomorrow.

Consider yourselves to be privileged, benefiting from a teaching of this kind, thanks to these special contacts; they are nowhere near being accepted by all.

By detaching yourselves from the useless, the superfluous, by turning away from the harshness of certain images, from increasingly loud sounds in terms of decibels, your perceptions will be refined – without being a medium, you will perceive us better.

Without forgetting the essential thing: an assiduous practice and a heart totally open to Love.
