Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, July 4, 1999 – 10:00 a.m.

Peace and tranquillity are not of this world; overcome this shock, my daughter, it is necessary.

This morning you do not have the good fortune to attend this meditation, but at this very moment, he is at work, he is perfect.

Rejoice at this; he is beginning a journey that will take him far, and you will have helped him take flight.

The Master is present as he usually is with the beginners, but all is well, he is satisfied.

You were not mistaken in seeing in him a beautiful soul; it will become a jewel.

Try, at least today, to forget your worries and to live this event that touches you in the depths of your being. The bonds between your souls are strong and indestructible.

Meditate with him now; your two hearts are in unison, bathed in our love.

Do you feel this vibration in you? He will go far, this boy; he is one of the chosen ones.

You are not alone. Spend this day as best you can, we bless you.

Babuji