Whispers from The Brighter World

Tuesday, July 6, 1999 – 8:00 a.m.

(At 10 a.m.: meditation with M.)

The Medium: Babuji, make it possible for me to serve you correctly.

You are doing it; this activity, to a certain extent, has nothing to do with what your body is going through.

Don't be sad, my dear daughter, to see them leave. They are going towards their destiny.

They will manage to be active in the right sense of the word, not get lost in trivialities, and will devote themselves to what is important. They know very well how to make the distinction, they have enough good sense for that.

We use the possibilities of each individual for the good of the Mission and the good of all.

We are born not only with a programme to follow, but also with qualities that are useful for its realisation.

We all have a specific role to play, from the dictator to the homeless one; society is arranged in this way.

In the Mission, there is necessarily an organizational structure, with a distribution of tasks to be carried out, either in the material or the spiritual domain, these being the keystone of the edifice.

Activity on both planes is important: cooks, accountants, preceptors, secretaries and other functions contribute to the harmonious whole of a seminar and the life of this society in general.

We have already mentioned an ant hill, what could be more beautiful than this organization that works wonderfully, each one having its place and a definite function as important as that of the neighbour!

Following their example, be highly evolved and brilliant ants.

The creator of all things, is he not brilliant too?
