Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, July 11, 1999 – 10:00 a.m.

We appoint you: spiritual mother of this ashram. We know how dear it is to your heart, and what you left behind to come and settle down here. Give it an unconditional love, forever.

No matter what happens, protect its entity, now and in the future, wherever you may be; it is in your custody. There is quite a lot to do to raise it up. You know what it must become – a luminous refuge for a great number of souls, even if its geographical location happens to change.

Don't ask yourself any questions; as the old saying goes, live from day to day.
You human beings always want to anticipate and think of tomorrow.
Adopt this way of seeing things, you will feel better.
That's all for today, you clearly see that it's a special day for you.
