All the bustle around you has stopped. The channel is finally free, and we can start. Taste these moments of peace and communion. Let yourself be lulled by these melodious sounds. Don't feel embarrassed; these comments are intended for all, as is the case every time. Each one can feel its effects in their own heart.

"An unremitting work has shaped your soul. The rigour in sadhana bears fruit. You cannot assess its extent, you feel different; you only aspire to rise up.

"The soul cannot stop on its way, the appeal is the strongest; it carries you always further along. This attraction accelerates with time. No one can resist it. Is there any thing more beautiful, more exciting, than this celestial union? It embellishes your days and makes you glide out of time. This mystical life which develops in one may not change the face of the world, but it contributes to your radiance.

"Only God knows the reason for his choices, it is in the nature of things. When grace wins over a soul, it is a blessing for humanity."
