Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, January 22, 2016 — 10:00 a.m.

Seeing only the good and the beautiful in all things is a strength. Dwelling on the many disadvantages of an incarnation does not help one progress. It takes time and consistent effort to achieve wisdom — wisdom that surpasses materiality by dealing only with what is strictly necessary. Following a spiritual way entails the engagement of the heart, a deep aspiration for the Divine. It cannot be held back; it emerges at the opportune time, as it sees fit. Arriving at this stage opens up unlimited opportunities that are humanly indefinable but so rich in discoveries of all kinds. Surrendering to this power is wonderful; it instils in the whole being a special vibration that cannot truly be assessed. Opening one's heart in this manner allows one to take a big step. Nothing can be forced, and everyone is free to be engaged, or not, in order to progress as appropriate.

"It takes time to understand where the essential thing lies; so many efforts need to be considered here below. The true path, one that transports the soul to the delights for which it yearns, can only be revealed with time. Blessed are the souls who are fulfilled, who surrender to the higher power without trying to understand the meaning of such a happiness — one that has been promised and is experienced with delight. No one can know what tomorrow will bring. The most elaborate projects within the journey of one's life do not always yield the anticipated result. Interiorisation provides answers and, with time, they are accepted for the greater good of the aspirant, who is supported and carried by us, even though we cannot spare a person from everything."
