Tuesday, September 26, 2000 - 10:00 a.m.

The Medium: "Babuji, will your son be able to come and see me one day?"

He would like to, but his time schedule is busy and travelling to France has become difficult because of the state of mind prevailing in this country. He will end up finding a solution, knowing that this meeting would make me happy. It would make the exchanges between you easier and it would allow me to intervene more often for him personally. France, formerly a country of freedoms, has changed much. A healthy and pacifist organization like ours is not welcome any more. Unfortunate confusion is made in this area. The distinction between 'the wheat and the chaff' remains to be made. The current frame of mind does not go in this direction. The recognition of the Mission will not happen tomorrow. We must put up with it and wait for better days. That should not disturb you. The destiny of Sahaj Marg will not be affected. It carries on its road and it brings, as of today to the souls that are ready to receive it, a priceless benefit."

Babuji