The spirit of Sahaj Marg will live on, no matter what happens. There is nothing to worry about it. Do not let yourself be impressed by the political system in this country; what is good always ends up prevailing. Eddies are useful; they sweep away what is undesirable. Our way is supported by the higher authorities, and it will carry on its way, in spite of the madness of men. Take refuge in this inner space where all is beauty. Leave aside the world which surrounds you; your realizing how it is, will not change it. Contribute to making it advance by doing an increasingly refined work on yourself. A luminous day is rising in your heart; let it open out completely to the divine presence. You should become more and more conscious of this unique gift being given to the man of goodwill. His omnipresence in him is the most precious good he can have. He cannot sense it easily; he must search for it and deserve it.

"Your fellow men often lose sight of this objective and let themselves be won over by the false attractions of this world. It is not easy to resist the temptation of an effortless life and its deceptive appearances. Letting oneself be carried away by these kinds of human inclinations, only brings disturbances and feelings of frustration. If such is your case, it is time to react by opening your eyes on the realities of life."
