Friday, October 20, 2000 - 10:00 a.m.

You all are connected to the same source by a kind of invisible thread; this is an image to make the point more concretely. The system is more complex and especially vibratory. Various lengths of waves connect you to the invisible; your spiritual work refines you and places you on the appropriate network.

"We will soon conclude this 'Epilogue'. There is enough food for thought in all that has been said. Each reader of these lines will react in their own way and they will derive the related benefit according to their interest in it. The same applies for the basic teaching we give and the reading of the many books we wrote. The most demanding request can be met and bring you to a true awareness to focus on the main things. Each one must be able to advance on the path suitable for them, supported in their convictions by an assiduous practice and an open-ended book teaching. We believe we have put at your disposal the needful to meet your expectations. Follow your Master with confidence; he is a very sure guide. Be surrendered and joyful for having found a spiritual way that meets your aspirations."

Babuji